The letters were judged entirely on their merits without regard to length.

The two local winners will be guests of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio on a 1,000-mile tour of Ohio starting in Columbus on Sunday, June 23 and ending on Saturday, June 29. With them will be approximately 30 winners from other Ohio communities. The trip, to be made in a modern motor bus, will take in numerous places of scenic and historic interest throughout the state, as well as several of the larger cities. Accompanying the young tourists will be two school teachers, a trained nurse, a representative of the Ohio Historical Museum, and a tour conductor. All expenses will be paid by the Standard Oil Co.

The winning letters follow:

By Mary Louise Friley

"In a very small place called Adams county, in our own state of Ohio, there is a very interesting mound.

"It is called the Serpent Mound, and is 500 feet long; while following the curves it is about 1,350 feet.

"This mound is shaped like a huge snake with open jaws. It is more than a quarter mile in length, the body being 30 feet wide and its open jaws are 75 feet across.

"Within the curved surface of this beautiful scene is held a fascinating story of the never-ending labor of the Indians and of the use for which this mound was built.

"It is one of the most famous animal mounds that was ever made by man.

"These are the reasons why I pick it from the thousands of interesting places we find in Ohio about which to write."

By Martha Gale Frew

"On an obscure street in the southern section of Columbus, O., here stands a woodcarver's home. This appears to be a very ordinary house, but in it are various, perhaps invaluable, handcarved, wooden articles. In the small workshop at the back of the house, expensive decorations for private homes have been made. Here, the altars, pew-ends, chair backs, and similar pieces of woodwork for large churches have actually been carved.

"Even though it is not a famous or spectacular spot, I shall always cherish the brief two hours I was there, and remember it as one of the extraordinarily interesting spots of Ohio."

Army Air Corps Has New "Detective" To Help Eliminate Metal Impurities

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O.—The army air corps, searching for better alloys for planes, has a nearly infallible "detecuve" that spots impurities in less time than it takes to describe it.

The detective is the spectroscope, an old device just coming into its own in industry. It analyzes, and records on the spectrograph, the chemical makeup of a substance in a few minutes, as compared with the hours and frequently days needed by standard chemical methods.

Essentially, the spectroscope is an instrument for analyzing light by resolving the rays into their component parts. As a prism of glass breaks sunlight into the colors of the rainbow, the spectroscope, whose principal part is a triangular prism of quartz, breaks up light into its dozens of subdivisions.

Distinctive Spectrum

The value as a practical laboratory tool lies in the fact that the light given off from the glowing vapor of each element from which matter is formed has unique spectrum composed of light of very definite wave length or color. The spectrum patterns of no two elements are alike, just as no two persons' fingerprints are identical.

By burning a piece of metal in an electric arc a spectrum is obtained.

Further, since the intensity of the light in the spectrum of any one element is proportional to the amount of that element present, the density of the photographic lines made by that light indicates almost exactly how much of the element is present.

All metals and some nonmetals, about 70 elements in all, are detectable in industrial spectrographic analysis. Metallurgists report that the most important elements escaping the industrial spectroscope are sulphur and carbon. Phosphorus determination is uncertain. However, all three are easily subject to other analytical methods.

Variety of Uses

The spectroscope in the physics unit of the material laboratory at Wright field is being used not only in the analysis of metals, but also of corrosion products, soaps, cleaners, greases, oils, paint pigments and textiles.

More than 1,000 analyses are made each year. If an engine part fails, a sample is put to the test. If it should have been chrome-vanadium steel, and the spectogram shows no vanadium, the air corps knows an improper substitute has been used and what the substitute is.

On the other hand, the spectrum of one metal which had shown unusual welding properties demonstrated the presence of an unsuspected trace of lead. Thus, metallurgists quickly learned that the trace of lead was responsible for the improved quality of the metal.

WAR VOLUNTEER

Volunteering for the Women's Auxiliary Air Corps, now being organized, Nancy Love, of Boston, shown at controls of her plane, hopes to serve the U. S. in event of war. Women fliers would perform non-combat duty, such as ferrying new planes, to free male aviators for actual fighting. Britain's women fliers are now engaged in such work.

MICHAEL ULLMER OF NEAR MARION DIES

Lifelong Resident of County Ill Several Years.

Michael Ullmer, 75, lifelong resident of Marion county, died yesterday at 5 p. m. at his home six miles southeast of Marion on the Ullmer road. He had been in failing health for several years.

Mr. Ullmer was born in Richland township on Jan. 30, 1865, son of Jacob Ullmer, a native of the township, and Elizabeth Neidhart Ullmer, who was born in Pleasant township. He was married in the county on April 28, 1887 to Miss Elizabeth Lehner. They observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1937.

Surviving with the widow are three sisters, Mrs. George Hess of 392 Cherry street, Mrs. Clara Wolfinger of Cherry street and Mrs. J. W. Klingel of Waldo.

The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Schaffner-Denzer Co. funeral home on East Center street and at 2:30 at the Evangelical and Reformed church in Waldo. Rev. R. L. Barr, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Waldo cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 8 tonight.

MRS. LUCY CLARK DIES AT HOME IN HEPBURN

Special to The Star

HEPBURN, June 6.—Mrs. Lucy Clark, 66, wife of Basil Clark died last night at her home here, following a year's illness. She was born near Little Sandusky in Wyandot county and had lived here for the last 25 years.

Surviving are her husband, three daughters, one sister and three brothers.

Funeral will held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Methodist church of which she was a member. The pastor, Rev. W. M. Gross, will officiate and burial will be in the Lee cemetery west of here.

Telephone engineers have increased the speed of sound about 186,000 times by electrical waves.

The fact the car on his right already has moved into the intersection does not deter the driver of this coupe from trying to get across first.

Tossing caution aside, the operator of the coupe speeds up a bit, figuring that by swerving he can "safely" cut in front of the other machine and thus save a few seconds.

What frequently happens to this . . .—Washington Star Staff Photos, with cooperation of American Automobile Association.

If you were to study police records—you would be surprised I'm sure at the great number of accidents caused by folks who are a bit impatient and so much in a hurry that they will always "fight" for the right-of-way. Accidents, serious accidents, happen that way. The half minute or so you might save if you do beat the other fellow will be wasted before you get where you are going anyway, so why not slow up. Taking your time may save a life—It's worth slowing up for isn't it?

Seven Central Junior High Pupils Close Year with Perfect Averages

Two from 7th Grade, One from 8th, Four from 9th Listed; Others Given Certificates.

Seven Central Junior High school pupils, two from the seventh grade, one from the eighth grade and four from the ninth grade, had perfect 16-point averages, it was announced following the presentation of citizenship and scholarship certificates at an assembly this morning

Those with perfect averages are Geraldine Messenger and Corrine Neece seventh grade Charles Elliott, eighth grade Mary Jane Augenstein, Mary Johnson Eleanor Myers and Marjorie Schoonover ninth grade

The certificates were presented by Principal W E Orcutt who explained that since abolishment of the honor roll two years ago a committee of teachers recommend that recognition on a point system be made not only of those with high scholastic achievement but more particularly those who have acquired desirable school citizenship habits such as qualifications for service scholarship citizenship and extra curricular activities

This scheme makes it possible for the boy and girl with a desirable school attitude who makes effective use of his school experience to be rewarded regardless of his scholastic achievement Mr Orcutt said He added Of course the student must be doing all that he is able to do with regard to his school lessons.

Awards Committee

The committee formulating the year was composed of Miss Effie Oliphant chairman Miss Ella Mears and Miss Bess Snider

EYES "5TH COLUMN" Women Cooler Than Men, Group Told by Expert

Hugh H Clegg (above) assistant director of the federal bureau of investigation, has been chosen to head a new national defense investigation unit which will watch fifth column and similar activities (Associated Press Photo)

By HOWARD W BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK — Women's feet and hands average five degrees cooler than men's, their arms four degrees cooler, legs and head three, and trunk half a degree cooler than those of the male

These measurements were reported to the American Industrial Hygiene association by Prof C P Yaglou of the Harvard school of public health.

They illustrate a dilemma of the air-conditioning engineer who Yaglou said gets a howl from the men when he makes the room comfortable for the women

In spite of the fundamental temperature differences of the sexes, he said that both could be happy if both would wear similar weight clothing. This means less for men in summer and more for women in winter

Men dressed in women's summer clothing, weight 1 8 pounds compared with 5 pounds of usual male attire demanded a temperature of 80 for comfort despite the fact that in male attire they had 'bowled' previously at 76 as too hot.

'Reversely' he said 'when women wore men's winter clothes (8.2 pounds instead of 2.6 pounds the average of women's indoor winter garb) the comfortable air temperature was just as low (70.5) as that preferred by men in male clothing

He pointed out that both men and women agreed they were most comfortable with a mean skin temperature of 91 5 to 93

Juniors Hosts to Senior Class at Annual Prom

160 Harding and Edison Pupils Dance at Rainbow Gardens; Parents Are Spectators.

By HALLIE HOUCK

Some 160 young people were gay at Rainbow Gardens last evening when the seniors of Harding High school were guests of the juniors of Harding High and Thomas A. Edison Junior High schools at the annual junior-senior prom.

The ranking inter-class social event of the commencement season, the affair drew a large number of parents of seniors, admitted as guests of the junior class.

George Boller's orchestra, originated at Ohio State university, alternated "sweet" and "hot" music for the dancers from 9 o'clock until midnight. After the dance uptown restaurants enjoyed the patronage of many of the dancers.

Supt. and Mrs. C. A. Hudson, Mrs. Hudson in a heavy white crepe formal with gold embroidered bodice, members of the faculties of both schools and at least one member of the board of education were among the guests. Supt. and Mrs. Hudson have a son, Dale, in this year's graduating class.

12 Dances, 3 Extras

The blue and yellow dance programs, tied with dark blue silk cord and tassel, held spaces for 12 dances and three extras, all taken before the prom ended. Tall white wicker baskets filled with bridal wreath marked the main entrance to the dance floor and at the north end of the ballroom there was a popular "wishing well," surrounded by a white picket fence. Punch was served throughout the evening.

The prom costumes of the girls were alternately delightfully youthful and ultra-sophisticated.

Iris Erow, who led the grand march with King Keller, president of the junior class at Harding, was in a black and white checked taffeta frock with a brief white jacket with wide lapels edged with pleating of the material of the frock, and wore a black and white bow in her hair. Carolyn King, who was in the grand march with the senior class president, John Roberts, wore a soft blue linen gown with fullness at the back and a white jacket edged in a scroll applique of the blue. Maxine Chaney who was the partner of the Edison junior class president, James Craven, in the march, wore pink taffeta with a blue corsage at the bodice.

Flowers were more profuse than for several years. Many of the girls wore flowers in their hair, one girl in filmy white having an unusual skull cap of deep red carnations. Several orchids shone, and one girl in black chiffon and lace, with her hair piled high, carried an old-fashioned round bouquet.

In a 15-minute intermission entertainment was furnished by Miss Jayne Melby, tap dancer, and Marian Snyder, Gerald Strauss, Ray Smith and Bill Walters, vocalists. Bob Smith was accompanist for the quartet.

Lovely indeed was the blond young lady in white organza with all all-over embroidery of softest pastel shades, with which she wore a jacket with angora embroidery following the same sheer pattern of her dress. Black and white with accessories of red was a popular combination. One dancer wore an unusual red-ingote of long white sharkskin skirt with red and white striped seersucker top, fastened at the waits with a girdle held by tiny white buttons, and worn over a simple but well-cut gown of the seersucker.

Other Gowns

A jacket of Romany striped heavy taffeta topped a white sharkskin formal with a girdle of the striped material, and another girl, tall and fair wore a full-skirted formal with a tight basque and elbow-length sleeves, all in black and white checked taffeta.

A fine white ruching edged the sweetheart neckline of a black taffeta princess gown and one gown of white taffeta had a matching jacket which flared at the waist and bossted bright sequin tracery down its front.

A girl whose pink and burgundy chiffon gown floated as she danced, wore an unsual hair arrangement using the lighter shade of chiffon to plait her hair in the back. A raspberry taffeta had a hoop skirt and a simple white sheer frock was highlighted by a scarlet sash and real red rosebuds outlining the front of the square neckline. Another gown was made with a white sharkskin skirt and navy and red top, with a white jacket.

Cottons and the simpler, girlish fashions prevailed.

Following are the committees appointed by Keller and Craven to take charge of the affair, the first named as chairman and the last two on each committee being from Edison school.

Place, Russell Dunlap, faculty advisor, Junior Gifford, Ida Bartlett, Zelma Field, Robert Shipley and Edith Hartle; orchestra, Kenneth Miller, faculty advisor, Barbara Gottschall, Barbara Newell, Marjory Callahan, Jean Shepherd and Carl Whiteman; reception, Miss Ruth Starr, faculty advisor, Carolyn King, Dorothy Thompson, Joan Austin, Edwin Smith and Elizabeth Haberman; decorations, Miss Margery Eymon, faculty advisor, Marjorie Williams, Marilyn Hooley, Kenneth Sweney, Richard Moore and Dorothy Washburn; refreshments, Miss Isabella Stump, faculty advisor, Helen Ditter, Nancy Wright, Dick McCormick, Louis Layman and Rowena Allen; program, R. A. Todd, faculty advisor, Helen Schaffner, Wayne Short, Jean Armbruster, Maxine Chaney and Jerry Clunk; entertainment, Miss Rachel McAfee, faculty advisor, Bill Clevenger, Gerald Strauss, Dorothy Tuttle, Everett Smith and Twila Schneck; invitations and finance, Miss Margaret Wolfley, E. H. Shade and Mark H. Baker, faculty advisors, Marion Schneider, Miriam Linder, Alwyn Gwilym, Donna Rech and Jane Harper.

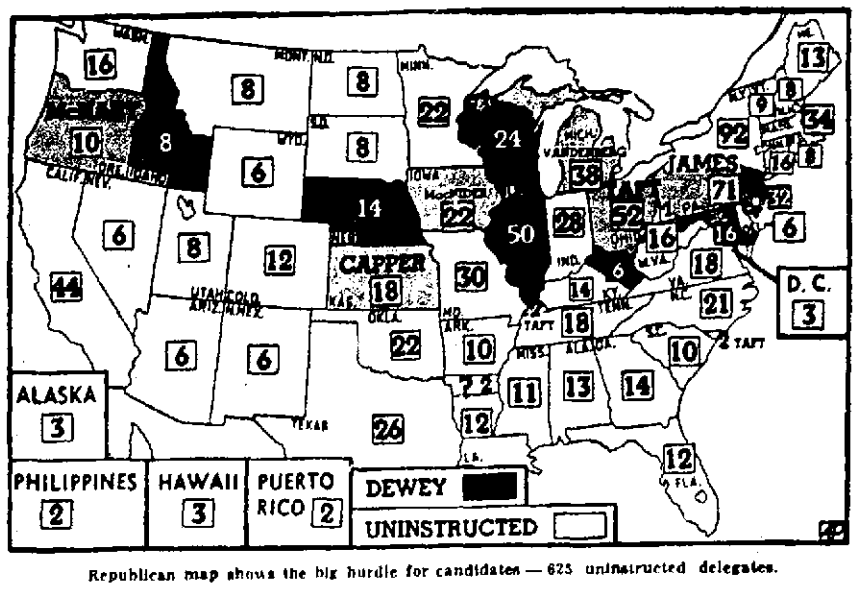
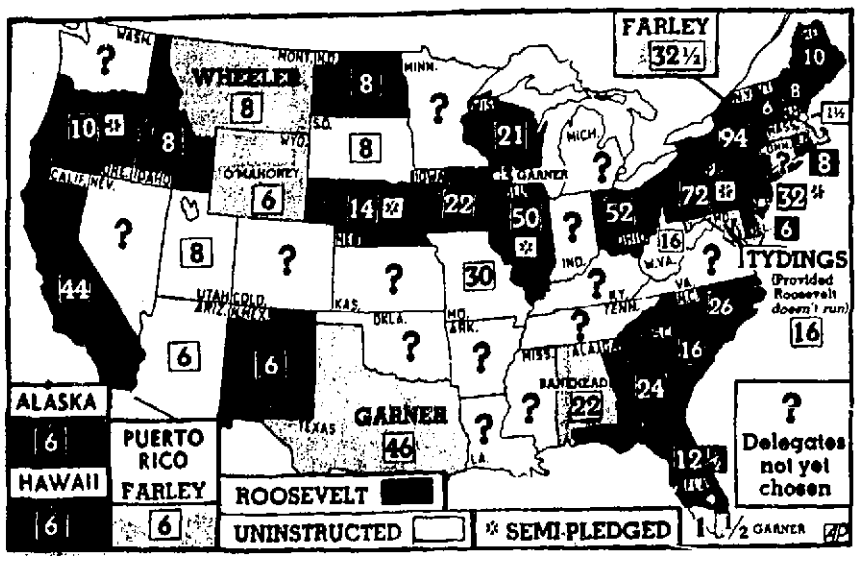
Candidates Enter the Home Stretch in Contest for Convention Pledges



Republican map shows the big hurdle for candidates — 625 uninstructed delegates.



Democratic map indicates President Roosevelt might muster 600 votes on the first ballot.

Presidential hopefuls are now entering the pre-convention home stretch. President Roosevelt apparently has the Democratic nomination in the bag, if he wants it, with 561½ votes pledged to him as of June 1. Garner, with 48½ votes pledged, holds second place; Farley is third with 38½.

No Republican has inspired a band-wagon rush. Thomas E. Dewey leads with 150 pledged votes. Pennsylvania's Governor James has the endorsement of 71 votes from that state. Taft has 56 and Vandenberg 38.

These maps show where the votes come from, and how the pledges stood June 1.

AMERICAN DOGS LUCKY

Dogs in America are generally accepted by people regardless of their pedigree, provided they have a good disposition and reasonable intelligence. In Germany and England there is little tolerance for mongrels. The French are sentimental over their dogs, often giving them privileges which they do not want. Russians frown on all but useful dogs.

118 NEW CARS SOLD IN COUNTY IN MAY

Total for 1940 Is 98 Ahead of 1939.

Sales of new passenger automobiles in Marion city and county last month totaled 118, one less than the number sold in the preceding month and 18 ahead of the sales listed for May of last year, according to figures released today by the Retail Merchants Bureau of 142½ East Center street.

Although May sales fell one short of the April total, the sales in the first five months of 1940 exceed by 98 the number sold in the corresponding five-month period last year. Sales of used passenger cars and trucks likewise are ahead of 1939.

A total of 521 new passenger vehicles have been sold in 1940, compared with 423 sold in the same period a year ago. Used car sales in May totaled 292, seven ahead of the preceding month and exactly the same number as in May 1939. May used car sales brought this year's total to 1,233, which is 101 ahead of the 1,132 sold in the first five months of 1939.

Eleven trucks were sold in May, five more than the six listed for April and two ahead of the nine sold in May last year. Truck sales for the first five months of 1940 total 54, which is eight ahead of the 46 sold in the corresponding period last year.

A total of 1,136 certificates of title were issued in May, according to Miss Alma Fetter, deputy in charge of the title division in the office of Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman. That figure was 20 ahead of the 1,116 issued in April and 44 more than the 1,092 listed in May last year. Totals for first five months list 4,927 iss in 1940 and 148 more, or 3.0 granted in the same 1939 per

Anaesthesia March

We noticed yesterday, the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of ether and the honor done to our pioneer American physician, Dr. Crawford W. Long, for whom a stamp is now issued, to remind us that in 1842 he first gave ether as an anaesthetic for a surgical operation.

Today I would like to point out the progress that has been made by modern science in the development of anaesthesia. The word "anaesthesia" means freedom from pain, and was coined by Oliver Wendell Holmes.

For a long time, ether chloroform and nitrous oxide (laughing gas) were the only substances commonly employed for surgical or dental anaesthesia. All of them are what are called "inhalation anaesthetics." They derive their properties from the fact that they are volatile and readily become gaseous at ordinary temperatures, so the patient can inhale them into the lungs; the fine blood vessels of the lungs absorb them and they numb the higher centers of the brain.

The first step in advance was the discovery of local anaesthesia. In principle, this means the deadening of the small area where the surgeon intends to operate. It began in about 1882 — when the great nerve specialist, Sigmund Freud, asked a young doctor, Karl Koller, to help him find out about the properties of cocaine. Dr. Koller being a conscientious investigator, started by experimenting on himself. He swallowed some of a solution of cocaine; he was expecting general sensations, but he noticed to his surprise that it made his tongue and the inside of his mouth numb.

This interested Dr. Koller very much. He was intending to specialize on the eye, and he knew the desperate need for something that could be dropped in the eye to deaden pain after injuries and deaden sensation for local operations. He tried cocaine in the eye and found it worked.

Dr. Koller is still alive, in active practice in New York, one of the great heroes of science, little known, modest and industrious in an active eye practice.

Bad News for a Man in a Hurry

SUCCESSFUL withdrawal of 335,000 Allied troops from the lost battle of Flanders is not, as Premier Churchill has told parliament, a victory but a "colossal military disaster."

It is a demonstration, nevertheless, of the magnitude of Adolf Hitler's task. By tremendous waste of life and equipment he has brought about a hasty victory, but the byproduct is a moral victory for the enemy.

There still are Belgian soldiers fighting with the Allies; they did not choose to obey their king's order to surrender. A sizable Polish army is fighting with the Allies; its members refused to concede defeat.

The German invaders continue to meet resistance from Norwegian troops, despite disintegration of Norwegian sovereignty. Czechs and Slovaks still are resisting German domination. The Dutch troops which survived the German invasion do not love Hitlerism any more as actuality than they did as a possibility.

Everywhere that German militarism has loosed its efficient ferocity the byproduct has been a stiffening of the spirit of its victims and heightened determination to take revenge for the misery it has caused. The British and French, weakened in the field, apparently are greatly strengthened in their resolve to fight. Even German communiques acknowledge the fact of stubborn Allied resistance. Reverses have fortified their will, a bad omen for an aggressor in a hurry to finish the job of conquest.

It is borrowing hope from the future to say so, but Hitler's bloody plan of building a German super-state on the ruins of the old order may have the unexpected consequence, for him, of restoring vitality and purpose to the nations he tried to destroy. Like Germany, they may turn adversity into a revived determination to overcome the things that threaten them. Certainly no one can be blind to the renewed resolution of the United States to protect its way of life from attack—a direct consequence of Hitlerism.

Dies Committee Vindicated

TOTALITARIAN boasts that liberal governments are helpless against the "new technique" of disruption are being answered with forthright action. Great Britain and France are throwing known subversionists into jail and taking drastic measures to check those remaining at large. In the United States, where the experience of Norway, Belgium and Holland had the effect of a general alarm, similar steps are being taken. This country has no notion of remaining helpless because that's the way it's supposed to be.

It is a matter of record here that when the Dies committee tried to tell the country what is now known to be true about political termites it was batted around unmercifully by a number of spokesmen for the government. It was seeing things under the bed, staging a red hunt, undermining the Bill of Rights, taking itself to seriously etc., etc. This was a sample of the way the "new technique" worked, by taking advantage of the reluctance of its victims to believe the worst, but to continue believing in the best until the worst befell them. Like all new weapons of warfare, fortunately, the usefulness of the stunt declines rapidly when the element of surprise is gone. Fifth columning has become a hazardous occupation in every alert country.

Discovering South America

DISCOVERY of South America, which must be a matter of surprise for South Americans when they read about it, goes on apace.

While business men and empire builders are surprised over statistics on population, space and natural resources, an editor, curious about the implications of hemispheric defense, is entitled to wonderment about South America's statistical ability to defend itself.

An expedition of discovery with The World Almanac discloses that the regular armies and trained reserves of South America total not more than 1,500,000, which is considerably less than the paper total for Rumania. This strength is divided some 20 ways, furthermore, and therefore does not represent continental defense capacity at all.

As for airplanes, No. 1 necessity in modern war, South America could put about 700 planes into the air if all its governments acted in concert. There is no naval strength worth mentioning. In short, South America's statistical ability to defend itself is nil, being on the whole a great deal less on paper than the statistical defense of the United States, which experts lately have been pointing out is next to nothing.

Not So Dizzy

ANNOUNCEMENT of Dizzy Dean's decision to retire to the minor leagues to develop a sidearm delivery for another whirl in the big show is a nostalgic note. Once upon a time the idiosyncrasies of Dizzy were the dizziest story of the day. Sweet essence of stability! Baseball fans—the people of America, in fact—owe the gentleman an apology. He was the personification of horse sense. They hope he masters that sidearm delivery so he can keep on being news. He's a good example.

News Behind the News

Talk in Washington Has It That Roosevelt Failed To Argue Duce Out of War.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The congressional directors in Mr. Roosevelt's confidence have been trooping out of the White House lately with saddened countenances. They passed the word along the top wave length here that Mr. Roosevelt's negotiations with Mussolini were unsatisfactory.

The Italian leader seemed to give some assurance he might do nothing before June 15, but considered himself bound to enter the war. His position was that he had a contract obligation with Hitler which must be fulfilled.

The President's advices also confirmed one important bit of Allied news which has sounded like propaganda. The Germans lost very heavily in the final stages of the Dunkerque engagement, especially in flooded areas where they were forced to abandon their tanks and meet the French and British on an equal footing, sometimes two feet deep in water and mud. That is why the British escaped.

Paul Mallon

The news raised some hopes that Germany might require a breathing spell for reorganization.

More for Housing.

The attempt of the new dealers to get a fresh $800,000,000 appropriation for housing fell like a feather upon the floor of the house banking committee—softly but surely. The downtown boys had stirred the committee into calling a meeting now that the budget is shot anyway, and the committeemen dutifully assembled to start the vast spending project on its way toward enactment. But as they entered the committee room, a congressman handed each member a May 21 copy of "public housing," the weekly newspaper of the United States housing authority. Therein textually published was an address by Assistant USHA Administrator Robert C. Weaver on the subject of the Negro as a tenant. The following were the final two paragraphs relating to government projects for mixed racial occupancy:

"In addition to the six USHA-aided projects in which both Negro and white tenants are now living, there are 14 projects for mixed occupancy developed by the housing division of PWA. This mixed occupancy has in no instance occasioned any serious and lasting difficulties.

"What effect the government's public housing program will have on the problem of residential segregation only time will tell. However, the program has already made an initial demonstration of two important factors involved in this problem; first, that Negro occupancy need not result in depreciation of property, that the Negro is a responsible tenant in a decent home; and, second, that the two races can live harmoniously together in the same project, that the negro can be a good neighbor as well as a good tenant."

The chairman of the committee comes from Alabama and other Democratic members represent other southern communities. The meeting thereupon was silently adjourned.

Loophole?

A smooth loophole large enough to push small government credits through to the Allies may have been formed in a section of the new reconstruction finance bill pending in congress.

The loop is not evident to anyone who would read the legislation. It merely allows the RFC to grant money advances on purchases from abroad.

But the agriculture department has confidentially made a recommendation to RFC which would enlarge the crevice. It suggests the arrangement be applied to our purchases of such strategic war products as rubber and tin, so that Britain, for example, could get money from the RFC for the purchase of planes at least 60 days before its tin or rubber was delivered here.

Roosevelt Talk.

The administration is indirectly scattering seeds of assurance that Mr. Roosevelt will run. The activity indicates only that the White House has been perturbed by earlier published pieces, particularly one by Rexford Tugwell in "Look," that FDR had decided not to try.

Mr. Roosevelt could not let the impression that he will not run gain general circulation now for two mighty good reasons. His prestige in handling the foreign situation would be damaged seriously. He could not expect to swing much weight here or abroad if it were known his authority would expire in a few months.

Likewise the hand-picked delegates he has chosen for the Democratic convention might be encouraged to become unmanageable if cast loose before the Chicago assemblage. The game must be kept up for a while.

Today and Tomorrow

U. S. Urged To Enter Into Friendly Negotiations with Japan for Pacific Peace.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NEW YORK, June 6 — Although the attention of the Americas is fixed upon Europe, they must never forget that the American continents are a great island set amidst the oceans of the world. On the west the ocean washes the coasts of Asia and of the island empires of the east.

The only navy which the American hemisphere possesses is now in the western ocean. In that same ocean there is the Japanese navy. As between the United States and Japan, the two nations which have never been at war, there has developed in recent years a growing opposition of policies, interests and diplomatic principle.

Walter Lippmann

Their relationship today is obviously unstable. The naval treaty has lapsed. The commercial treaty has been abrogated. In respect to China the two countries have taken positions which are in theory irreconcilable. In respect to The Netherlands Indies their public declarations promising respect for the status quo are ambigious, and in the light of conceivable developments, exceedingly precarious.

The two countries confront each other across the vast expanse of the Pacific, each having taken a position where untoward circumstances or an uncalculated overt act might plunge both of them into a prolonged and exhausting struggle.

In such a struggle neither Japan nor the United States would be serving its vital interests. Both nations would be sacrificing them. The Japanese, already suffering from the Chinese war, would by engaging and exhausting themselves still further make themselves vulnerable to the only great power, namely, Russia, which can strike by land and by sea and by air at the very heart of the Japanese empire.

The United States, by drifting into such a war, would be engaging the navy for years to come in a confused and indecisive campaign on the other side of our world; yet at that very moment the security of the American continents may require the use of the whole navy to guard those strategic points in the Atlantic ocean which must be held if this hemisphere is to be defended.

Far East Secondary

Lest this opinion be ascribed to a sudden fear engendered by the critical state of Europe, I hope I may be pardoned for saying that many of us have held and expressed this view for a long time, ever since the outbreak of the European war was manifestly inevitable.

For it has been clear to us that whatever sympathies and interests in the Far East, a great European war of domination of the western world would affect directly and vitally the security and the independence of this hemisphere. We have held that, by comparison, our interests in the Far East would prove to be secondary, however important they might under more normal circumsances appear to be.

We have argued that the policy of the majority of the foreign relations committee of the senate last July was a classic example of how misguided men can imperil the security of a nation.

For in that fatal month the committee challenged Japan in the Pacific by supporting, and even by inciting to, the abrogation of the commercial treaty, and by brandishing the threat of an embargo; in the very same weeks, the same committee was refusing to lift the embargo on the sale of arms to the Allies on the ground that what happened to them was no concern of ours.

It was a most awful case of not letting your right hand know what your left hand is doing, an almost incredible case of being blindly provocative in one ocean and blindly supine in the other ocean. And aphappily the administration, which knew better, acquiesced in this utterly unstatesmanlike policy of challenging Japan in Asia while we were forbidden to support the Allies in Europe.

The situation today is, of course, worse than it was then. But still the fundamental interests involved are the same. It is still true that Japan and the United States have nothing to gain and a very great deal to lose by going to war—or even by standing opposed as if they might be going to war.

Use Diplomacy

It is still true that our interests in the Far East are secondary to our interests in this hemisphere; because this is true it follows that there is no conflict between Japan and the United States which is not reconcilable by diplomacy. We should, therefore, recognize this truth and should, I submit, enter immediately into friendly and conciliatory and candid negotiations with the Japanese for the avowed purpose of preserving the peace in the Pacific.

We should aim high and aim far—at a new order of things in the Pacific in which, having adjusted our secondary conflicts, the two navies will cease to confront each other as potential antagonists and will be free to maintain order and stability in their respective spheres of influence.

I have no way of knowing whether the Japanese nation will respond to such a change of American policy. My belief is that they might, that they do not regard themselves as our enemies, that they respect the power we are capable of developing and that the best of the Japanese leaders and the mass of the Japanese people desire peace with the United States. Even if this is not the fact, we shall never, I believe regret having tried wholeheartedly to preserve the peace in half the world.

Annapolis Speedup Due

Educational Frills May Go Overboard in Streamlining.

By JACK STINNET

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Plans are afoot for the United States navy to streamline its naval academy course at Annapolis to three years to meet the demand for officers in the vast expansion of our sea power.

According to grapevine information, Annapolis officials already have the new course mapped out and on less than 24-hour notice from the navy department could put the streamlining into effect to give our fighting ships 165 more ensigns a year than they're getting now.

The plan, of course, would have no effect on the 500 young men who are getting their stripes in June — but the second classmen (juniors), numbering more than 800, probably would be kept from their summer cruise to South America. Instead they would grind away in intensive training and be graduated at midyear early in 1941.

The 1,200 other young men in the academy and the new class of plebes would be thrown into a speed-up curriculum of high-gear training.

Gunnery, Not Poetry

A lot of the frills and furbelows of modern education would be dropped. The advanced courses in English, for example, probably would go overboard. You don't need a knowledge of restoration comedy to bawl out orders from the bridge of a plunging cruiser or a familiarity with the verse forms of Beowulf to crack commands down an engine-room speaking tube.

Also tapped for dismissal are some of the foreign language courses. A lot of the social activities at the academy would be cut off. In the time thus saved, the young sea dogs would concentrate on technical studies, such as navigation, gunnery, electricity and steam.

It begins to appear that the country's rapidly expanding naval program already has created a shortage of young officers in the fleet.

It was partially to offset this that the order was issued that only those youngsters in the 1940 graduating class who are physically unfit will be allowed to resign. In the past, when there was no shortage of officers, the young men could resign on graduation.

The officers detached from the fleet for post-graduate study at the Annapolis post-graduate school also have been ordered back to active duty. A third measure to fill the gaps was taken recently when many officers retired from active duty for physical disability or some such were called in the academy to become instructors, releasing abler officers for fleet duty.

One factor which has created the demand has been reconditioning of a large number of World war destroyers. These are a little disparagingly referred to by some of the young navy boys as a bunch of old cans and they are not to be used for anything at the moment but Atlantic patrol duty, but they have to be officered and manned just as well as the crack ships in the Pacific battle fleet.

It's Happened Before

If the order comes down to streamline the academy training, it won't be the first time. During the World war, Annapolis was on such a schedule, turning out classes at midyear, the classes being known as 1917-A, 1917-B and so on.

Army officials say that plans for army expansion will not necessitate any changes at West Point. There, during the World war, however, the officers' training course was virtually blitzkrieged; classes being graduated not only at the end of three years, but at the end of two, and one class pushed out in November, 1918, had only a little more than a year's concentrated schooling. These youngsters, however, were returned to the academy later for further training.

Present army increase plans will create a demand for more officers, but reserve officers may be taken on for extended service of from six months to one year.

DELIGHT IN GOD'S LAW: For I delight in the law of God after the inward man.—Romans 7:22.

"Well, my lands! Imagine washing a flea!"

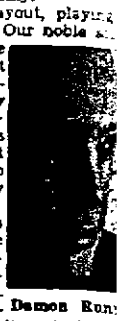
Remember 1898?

Little War 42 Years Ago Brou Results of Value Today.

By DAMON RUNYON

AT THIS time of the year, 42 years ago United States of America was all ne up over a war of its own. It was a daffy pe as the flowers came on to bloom in the sp of 1898. A man ordering a Spanish omelet restaurant in Omaha was slugged as a s patriotizer with the accursed enemy.

Bands were all over the layout, playing Hot Time in the Old Town." Our noble sa boys were being stabbed to the marrow by the sand fleas at Camp Merritt out in San Francisco, or passing quietly away of fever in southern cantonments. Florida was arming its inland creeks against the visit of the Spanish fleet, using crab traps. Everybody was pretty much excited.



Damon Run

Of course, it was not much of a war. Compared to the World war or the war now going on overseas, it was scarcely more than a small night raid. For years afterwards, newspaper humorists and stage comedians had lots fun with it. In spots, it was a funny war that, though the humor of it probably did strike the men who died in it, or their famil

There was even some argument as to moral merit of the war—as to its righteousn It was charged that it was purposely whoo up by selfish interests in this country, poli and otherwise. That it was a war of aggres on our part. As it turned out, it was just taking candy from a baby for Uncle Sam. Spaniards of 1898 could not fight a lick on or sea.

BUT TO show you how history can play c ous tricks, that little old Spanish-Amer war, with its opera bouffe aspects and all, the most important war next to the revolu in which this country ever engaged. (Yes, have said that before in this column and may say it again and again, just to keep the impressed on the minds of our readers.)

The jokes they used to make about it do seem so laughable in the light of events in world today when you consider that but fo Spanish-American war the United States wo be in a serious predicament for land bases defenses beyond its immediate shore lines.

We would not have our new Gibraltar Puerto Rico, past which in a few months a g of hostile intent will be unable to pass with attracting the notice of the eagles of Uncle S We would not have Guantanamo, an import naval outpost of the Caribbean, or the island Guam in the Pacific. We would not hav friendly Cuba and we might not have the P ama canal.

IT WAS the Spanish American war that dr national attention to the dire need of Panama canal. The whole nation watched greatest excitement the 14,000 mile voyage the battleship Oregon as it steamed from Pacific around South America into the Atlan to take part in the destruction of the Span fleet at Santiago. The incident was an obj lesson to the people of the value of a shor route between the coasts.

Forty-two years ago there were loud c of imperialism when, by the Treaty of Pa signed in December, 1898, the United States quired Pureto Rico, Guam and the Philippi and compelled Spain to relinquish Cuba. wail had been taken over by annexation t year, but there were many in this country w thought the United States should not spread stars and stripes even that far away from shores. There were many who thought the $2 000,000 we paid to Spain for Puerto Rico, Gu and the Philippines would have been too mu even as a straight-out purchase without ref ence to the war.

NOW THERE is a cry in the United Sta for the acquisition of Bermuda, the Bri ish West Indies, the French islands off Ne foundland, including St. Pierre, the old hav of the rum runners and other fragments land near the American shore lines on which can establish additional defenses. It is a go thing we do not have to start negotiating wit unfriendly Franco for those outposts of Caribbean today.

Wolves, bears and deer roamed the Franklin county terrain in 1816 in such quantities tha on Oct. 23 a bear hunt was held with 700 me taking part.

The hunt started at Worthington and followed newspaper reports that "for the past few weeks the bears, wolves, deer and turkeys have been uncommonly numerous in this vicinity."

Grand marshal for the affair was Col. James Kilbourne. The hunters formed a square 4 miles in circumference at Phelps Station, the headquarters. The grand marshal gave three blasts of the horn as a signal for the lines to start marching toward the center.

When the square was contracted to one mile the killing began. An official communique of the hunters' results reported that two wolves, three bears, 33 deer and 117 turkeys were bagged.

Here Is Picture of New German Drive on Paris

By The Associated Press

In broad strokes, here is the picture of the German drive on Paris.

The objectives for Germany, capture of Paris and the lower Seine river in the hope of forcing French capitulation and cutting France off from her ally, Great Britain, for the Allies, to hold Germany until empire and indus- trial resources can be mobilized for a successful counteroffensive. The Germans are within 70 miles of Paris.

The front A stretch of about 300 miles across northern France, reaching eastward from the sea, near Abbeville along the Somme and Aisne rivers, and across the Meuse to the region of Longwy, at the junction of the French- Belgian Luxembourg borders, point of the first German break through into France. French ad vices indicated that 125 miles of this front eastward from Abbe- ville was the most active

The method of attack First heavy artillery fire and dive bombing and strafing to soften defenses then tank assault to rip through front lines and spread confusion in the rear while ar- mored cars, motorized infantry and soldiers afoot, in that order, follow through the breaches made by tanks and dive bombers—the fundamentals of the blitzkrieg

The method of defense To hug the boggy shores of the Somme and Aisne and blast Ger- man tanks on the hard ground with the French 75s—the only weapon capable of halting Ger- many's rolling fortresses to dig in deeper on the line of defense which had been in construction for 10 days while disaster marched in Flanders to shell and bomb the more vulnerable parts of the German rearguard supply lines and depots, marching col- umns and troop concentrations, to turn every hill canal valley and forest into another weapon.

CHAPTER 22

Man Of Mystery

THE suit Rose wanted to lend her was too large for Jan

A couple of safety pins will fix it Rose decided expertly adjusting the skirt and pinning the waistband snugly "There, now, it's all right. What about shoes? I know you couldn't wear mine"

I've a pair of white pumps left over from last summer Jan turned to get her smock over her arm the blue hat in her hand Will you go in to see Lance before you leave?

Rose frowned fumbled in her tiny brilliant set bag for a cigarette put it between her lips and lit it before answering I thought it better not to go she answered I seem to upset him Johnny will have a fit if I'm any later

Jan went on out saying Thanks for the loan of the clothes I'll be careful of them

Don't be Rose admonished closing the door If I didn't live next with you I wouldn't be able to afford the sort of clothes I need Have fun tonight with your man of mystery

Man of mystery?

Rose smiled slowly wisely Wasn't he? Young handsome sophisticated obviously educated and far too experienced for the role he is playing I think he's hiding from something or someone Well murder usually outs

Jan thought of Derek's words Women and their hateful probing curiosity She answered nothing however and went on to her own room

Before going downstairs to join Derek she stepped in to see Lance He had turned off all the lights except a dim night lamp and the room was cloudy with cigarette smoke The heaped ash trays attested to his incessant nervous smoking

You need some air in here she said and opened two of the windows for a minute

He demanded sharply Where's Rose? I haven't seen her all day

She went to the Club for dinner

I heard you talking to her a minute ago in the hall

I know She's just leaving

The tip of his cigarette burned with red fierceness Well she could have stopped in a minute Close those windows will you? I'm cold I'm a fool he went on with derisive bitterness Why should I expect her to be interested in a helpless cripple? Why shouldn't she dine and dance and swim and ride Do all the things I can't do' Why couldn't I have met her when I was whole? When I flew—made money—was something somebody I'd do better to have these petrified legs of mine cut off at least then I could hobble about on stumps Why can't they give me artificial legs? I could use crutches then What in hell is the use of dragging two dead legs around? Jan you've got to do something for me I can't go on this way—buried alive in this room—slowly going mad, and maybe not so slowly

Thick With Grief

'All the earlier anticipation of fun fled from Jan all the pleasure of wearing something new of being with Derek Her throat became thick with grief Crossing the room she slipped an arm around her brother's thin shoulders He shrugged away from her touch 'I don't want pity and sympathy'' he rasped I want to walk!

'The surgeons said—' she began helplessly

I know, I know, but that was two years ago!"

We have no money," she whispered.

We can sell the house Oh don't look so hurt' If I can fly again I can buy you any kind of house you want"

But she knew he was thinking of Rose not her, and a defeated, desolate feeling wrung her heart

If you think it wise she agreed gently We can talk it over tomorrow Shall I send Norma in to keep you company this evening"'

No," he muttered "I can hardly bear to look at her during meals Her eyes are red and watery all the time—why doesn't she have her glasses changed? And why does she act as if I'm sticking pins in her every time I mention Rose" Oh, go along, I see you're dressed to go out, and stop bothering me!' He snapped on a lamp and wheeled himself to his work bench

I may as well finish my rounds she thought, going on to Norma's room, thankful to find Norma gone How could Lance be so blind? Didn't he know Norma loved him? That he was hurting her terribly? It wasn't like Lance to be deliberately cruel Rose she thought distractedly It was his utterly mad infatuation for the beautiful divorcee which had made him so unseeing unthinking uncaring for anyone or any thing else

I've been waiting years' Derek greeted her at the bottom of the stairs He noted her costume and his eyes crinkled with amused laughter You look like a little girl playing dress up in he mama's clothes he teased What is Rose trying to accomplish?

She glared at him If you say one more word I shall scream and go upstairs and put on my slacks and sweatshirt

Oh puss cat I was only teasing You look delightful and delovely and what's the rest—delirious? Anyhow come along and don't trip with those high heels You aren't used to them, you know

Don't I know' she asserted with emphasis My feet are already protesting these straight jackets I'm as hard to get into shoes as an Ozark hillbilly I slop around in sandals too much I've nearly forgotten how to pick up my feet

Where the cobbled walk, bordered by bleached sea shells met the cement strip of the beach Walk' Derek placed his hand on her shoulders and faced her toward the sea Close your eyes and make me a promise he ordered

Yes sir' Obediently her thick lashes swept down

Repeat after me I Jan Mertiner hereby promise to abandon care and worry for tonight because Care to our coffin adds a nail no doubt—And every grin so merry draws one out!

Toss Your Troubles'

She lingered over the words of the quotation Who said that?

Walcot a British satirist of the eighteenth century It's part of a collection of his 'Epostulatory Odes and the old boy sure knew what he was talking about' What I'm trying to convey is please toss your troubles back where they came from and let's see how many coffin nails we can draw out tonight with our grins How about it

Promise

He said touching her elbow as they walked He comes a man with a huge and quite awful nose I'll wager he'd give a lot to trade noses with most anyone but he looks the type who wouldn't go near a plastic surgeon because God gave him his nose and he must bear up under it

Jan giggled Stop it Derek she pleaded I want to worry about my worries and you're making it impossible

I aim to please Ma'am Well hold your hat Jan the first thrill is just ahead He mimicked the barker's ballyhoo for the roller coaster It's the High Boy folks' A long safe high sensational ride Only a dime for the thrill of a lifetime

Two please he smiled at the ticket girl

The car awaiting them was full except for the back seat Oh no Jan protested drawing back It's the worst seat of all

Oh yes he insisted and lifted her in Better take your hat off

She did while the attendant buckled a snap across their stomachs

All set the starter shouted

The car started off around a neck jarring curve clanked its way up and up toward the sky then hurtled down a Lucifer's chariot plummeting to Hades On the steepest downgrade Jan terrified, closed her eyes and clung to Derek sure her heart was on its way out of her mouth

Take my arm he ordered when again they stood on solid cement She put on her hat He reached over and gave it a tug over one eye achieving deftly a jaunty tilt Let's not skip anything till the money's all gone, he said

Jan hurried a little to keep up with his long strides looking up at him with shining, excited eyes The May evening was warm clear starry benevolent as a philanthropist Nearly all of the concessions and assorted rides were open for business and a good-sized crowd thronged the pier

Jan clung proudly to Derek's arm smiling at the good natured sallies proffered by the concessionaires her friends She introduced him to several of them Why didn't you warn me you knew everybody? he asked If I'd known I had to run a gauntlet I'd have washed behind my ears They tossed pennies into hoops and won a streamlined red cat for Jan they shot popguns fitted with corks and won cigarettes for Derek they threw baseballs at milk bottles and won nothing at all bounced balls into boxes and won a ham rode the merry go round and missed the gold ring went into the fun house and received a thorough shaking up rode whirling cars that perilled their necks rode a great swinging shoe that turned them upside down until their faces grew scarlet shot down a sparkling water way in a white gondola and got lost for several minutes in the tunnel of love

AWARDS, CERTIFICATES PRESENTED AT SCHOOL

Exercises Held in Olney Avenue Outdoor Assembly.

Reading certificates and awards in marble and jacks tournaments were presented by Miss Luella Scholl, principal, at the Olney Avenue school assembly yesterday afternoon on the school lawn.

Badges, awarded by the Y. M. C. A., were presented Jimmy Ekey, sixth grade champion in the school marble tournament; Ted Schiller, fifth grade champion; Elsworth Saunders, sixth grade runner-up; Herbert Phillians, fifth grade runner-up; June Pickerel, sixth grade jacks champion; Vivian Jenkins, fifth grade champion, and Kathryne Garrity and Mabel Johnson, sixth and fifth grade runners-up.

One hundred and twenty-five reading certificates were awarded, 25 diplomas and 50 seals to pupils who have done advanced reading. The program included singing of patriotic songs.

OFFICERS FROM HERE IN HUNT FOR BANDITS

City police and state highway patrolmen from the Marion substation joined a widespread search for four bandits who early this afternoon held up an Ohio National Bank branch at Bexley, Columbus suburb, and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Police Chief Ralph Hammar of Bexley, who was passing the bank as the armed bandits emerged, opened fire on the quartet as they emerged from the bank and one of the bandits is believed to have been wounded, The Associated Press reported from Columbus. Hammar said the men fled in an automobile bearing New Jersey license plates.

The car later was seen speeding through Columbus with glass in the rear window shattered, the state patrol radio station at Columbus reported.

R. V. Leach, branch manager, said it was "impossible" to estimate the loss immediately. He said the four entered the bank at 1:30 p. m., grasped him by the arm and forced all employes and a lone customer into a washroom. Leach said the cash drawers were rifled but no attempt was made to enter the vault.

Highway patrol cruisers from here were dispatched to Delaware and Marysville and city police cruisers were assigned to watch highways leading into Marion. Six squad cars from the Columbus headquarters of the state patrol and other patrolmen from stations south of Columbus also joined the search.

GRADE SCHOOL SOFTBALL TEAMS START SCHEDULE

KENTON FLY CASTER HOOKS ROBIN IN AIR

KENTON, O., June 6—Fred Hathaway, Kenton business man and lodge official, today told the season's most unique fish story. He and William Sharp were having exceptional luck fly-fishing at Turkey Foot on Indian Lake when his fly lodged in the breast of a robin flying overhead. He reeled in the bird and was kept busy for several minutes fighting robin and hook before he was able to free the unwilling "fish." The robin promptly flew away.

TO ATTEND MEETING

Rev. Carl V. Roop of First United Brethren church, a member of the executive committee of Otterbein college, will attend a joint meeting of the committee and the college board of trustees Friday afternoon at Westerville. The annual college commencement will be held Monday morning.

REYNAUD SAYS NAZI TANK LOSSES HEAVY

Premier Declares "Hundreds and Hundreds" Destroyed.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 6—(Via Radio)—France's Premier Paul Reynaud declared tonight that "hundreds and hundreds" of enemy tanks had been destroyed since the Germans launched their drive at dawn yesterday toward Paris, the heart of France.

In an address to his countrymen, France's one-man director of the war told them that there was now "reason for hope," and said that "the battle of June 1940 may decide the fate of the world for hundreds of years."

(Reynaud's speech was heard in the United States through NBC, which provided a translation.)

The premier declared that "the regime of oppression will disappear forever and that German dreams of control of Europe are going to disappear under French resistance."

"Germany accused us recently of being divided; but today France is calm and united.

"Every country in Europe today has one common interest, to avoid the control of Germany.

"France is looking forward to the reconstruction of Europe in which the order and safety of all peoples will be guaranteed. The other peoples of the world must understand soon — because our task is immense."

Reynaud said that in the last two weeks he twice had spoken to his countrymen and that both times his news had been bad. Then he told of the better news.

Reynaud ridiculed claims that Allied morale had been smashed by the German successes to date, adding that 335,000 Allied troops had been able to evacuate Dunkerque in the teeth of the German assaults.

"The French soldiers and British soldiers fought with a valor worthy of their ancestors," he added.

COMMITTEE ARRANGES FOR MEMORIAL SERVICE

A committee to arrange for a joint Odd Fellows memorial service next Tuesday night at 8 met last night at the lodge hall. Representatives were present from Kosciusko Lodge No. 58, Mizpah Encampment and Sosnowski and Wayside Rose Rebekah lodges.

The service will honor members of the four organizations who have died in the last year. Preceding the service Sosnowski lodge will serve a penny supper from 5 to 7.

YEAR NOT TOO LATE FOR AID, DUFF COOPER SAYS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 6—Minister of Information Alfred Duff Cooper told American newspapermen today that if America should come to the aid of the Allies even a year from now it would not be too late.

Germany, he said, apparently found it imperative to withhold attacks on England until after the offensive against France.

The minister expressed the opinion that any assaults on England would fail.

SIX KILLED AS CAR CRASHES INTO TREE

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCEBURG, Ky., June 6—Six persons, including a five-year-old child, were killed near here early today when an automobile swerved off the highway and crashed into a tree with such force as to snap it off 18 feet above the ground.

Two others in the car were seriously injured.

The dead are Mrs. Rosetta Trimble Sawyer Parton, 58, of Somerset, Charles David Sawyer, 35, her son, Mrs. Josephine Thurman, 25, Charles Morrison, 29, and Mrs. Ruby Lee Gaither, about 24, and Roy Everett Gaither, 5, all of Frankfort.

MARYSVILLE INCREASES 416 IN POPULATION

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, June 6—Tabulation of 1940 census enumerators here today revealed that Marysville's population has increased from 3,631 in 1930 to 4,047 in 1940, an increase of 416 or more than 11 per cent.

During the past 10 years the Nestles Milk Products Co., and Fisher Brass, Inc., plants have expanded operations and O. M. Scott & Sons Co. has also enlarged its operations, accounting for most of the population gain. In addition there have been a number of new retail businesses established.

SAM SNEED BLASTS 67 TO TAKE LEAD

Knocks 5 Strokes Off Par in Opening Round.

By The Associated Press

CANTERBURY GOLF CLUB, CLEVELAND, June 6 — Sam Snead blistered this golf course with a sub-par score of 67 today to take the leadership in the first round of the national open golf championship. Slammin' Samuel looked a champion in every stroke as he went out over the sun-baked course in 33 and came back in 34 to slice five strokes off par.

Snead's putter was as hot as the weather and he knocked them in from prodigious distances to take the leadership away from Ben Hogan, co-favorite with Snead. The ex-Texan had recovered from a shaky 37 on the front nine to score 33 coming back and post a 70.

Snead's score set a new competitive record for the Canterbury course. In fact, the course has not before been played at its present length of 6,921 yards. Sam had 13 pars and five birdies.

Snead's was the lowest opening round score in the history of the national championship.

DISTRICT SOFTBALL MEET TO BE STAGED IN MARION

Plans for a softball tournament, open to all teams in this vicinity, were announced today by Robert Putman, sponsor. Entries and fees must be filed by June 26 and drawings will be made at 8:30 p. m. that date at the Y. M. C. A. It will be a double elimination tournament with games June 30 and July 4 at Garfield park. The winning team will receive a trophy and possible team members will receive medals, Putman said.

Lochner Pictures Horror of War on Helpless Civilians

By LOUIS P LOCHNER
AP Berlin Bureau Chief

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY, BY TELEPHONE TO BERLIN, June 5—This war has set in motion one of the most tragic migrations in history

There is nothing more pitiable than these endless streams of human misery that I have encountered again and again in northern France and Belgium

Death and suffering are bad enough for the men in uniform But these hundreds of thousands of old men women and children and infants plodding along as the merciless sun burns their faces or backs had no choice about their role in this war

So fast do armies move today that these refugees couldn't even make a sensible selection of what to take with them in their hurry

Nor did they know at the time of fleeing that they would have to keep on the move constantly retreating from Belgium or northern France, farther and farther south

Near St Pol in northern France there is a little village through which the retreating French and advancing Germans swept without doing heavy local damage

The French evidently didn't make a stand there and the Germans had no interest in stopping Yet the entire population of the village had fled

Enroute to St Pol I found chalked on houses remarks like Grocer Monsieur Chablis fled with his family to masters house St Pol or Monsieur and Madame Yvels and their children have gone to Rue De Marseille 21 St Pol

But when we reached St Pol we realized that no one would find Monsieur or Madame Yvels in that town

It had been shelled in the meantime and the civilian population removed Where Monsieur and Madame Yvels had gone nobody knew

In the headlong flight children became separated from parents husbands from wives brothers from sisters in utter tragedy

Lewis Hurls U. B. to No-Hit Victory Over First Reformed

Pitcher Misses Perfect Game When Opposition Puts Over Lone Run in Third.

Oldtimers and Sunday School No. 2 softball leagues were active last night. The highlights of the evening took place at Wilson-Bohannon diamond where Guy Lewis of the first-place United Brethren team held the First Reformed squad hitless. A lone run pushed across the plate in the fifth by First Reformed ruined Lewis of a perfect game as his teammates went on to win 15-1.

Lutheran managed to keep pace with the U. B.'s as they edged the Salem team 14-11 in a slugfest at the Commercial Steel diamond. The Luther and U. B. teams now are tied for first place with four victories and no losses.

Greenwood Tops Irish

At the Marion Steam Shovel grounds Greenwood went into second place as they took the St. Mary ball club to the tune of a 7-5 score.

In the Oldtimers league Isaly's smothered Anthony Laundry 12-1, Conroy handcuffing the laundrymen and allowing them three hits.

The Marion Steam Shovel team tallied eight times to Marion-Reserve Power's three at the Marion Steam Shovel grounds.

In the only other game played in the Oldtimers league Coca-Cola fired 16 hits at the Post Office team to win 10-2. Purson held the mailmen to a pair of hits.

CONN KEEPS CROWN, NOW PLANS TO VACATE TITLE

DETROIT, June 6—Gus Lesnevich, a plodding pugilist from Cliffside Park, N. J., lost his chance to win the light-heavyweight boxing championship of the world last night but he woke up today with the knowledge that the title probably would be his within a few days. Billy Conn, the champion, rebuilt the blasted hopes of Lesnevich a few minutes after receiving the decision in a 15-round defense of his crown.

"Don't feel bad," said Conn, "because the championship will be yours in a few days. This fight convinced me I can't take off weight any more and from now on I'm a heavyweight. You can beat the other light-heavies," thereby signalizing his vacating of the title. He says he hopes to get a shot at heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

Masterson's Four-Hitter Stops Tribe, Reds Beat N.Y. To Strengthen Lea

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Washington Senators, who have had little enough to cheer about this spring, are rightfully cheerful over the suddenly sensational pitching of young Walter Masterson.

This lithe righthander, who won't be 20 years old until June 22, set the Cleveland Indians on their ears 6-1 yesterday with a four-hit pitching performance that was the day's brightest achievement in the major leagues.

Masterful Masterson

What made the effort more exciting for the Senators, however, was the fact that it came upon the heels of a three-hitter Masterson hurled May 30 in a seven-inning game against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Plagued by injuries, Washington hardly has been able to hold its head erect in the American league skirmishing this season, but good pitching would solve most of the club's troubles. The Nats haven't garnered less than ten hits in any of their last eight games.

They got ten yesterday, and masterful pitching by Masterson. He shut out the Tribe for eight innings before letting a run trickle across in the ninth. The verdict had been sealed in his favor by a five-run flurry in the fourth when Jim Bloodworth homered with the bases loaded.

Browns Edge Sox

The pesky St. Louis Browns nudged the Boston Red Sox into their third straight defeat, 4-3 in 14 innings, to preserve the one-half game margin between the Sox and Indians at the top of the standings.

Schoolboy Rowe pitched batted the Detroit Tigers to triumph over the Philade Athletics in a night game scattered seven hits and ban three of Detroit's runs.

The New York Yankees ju on Lefty Thornton Lee for l and stopped the Chicago Sox 7-5. Monte Pearson ened in the ninth and ga three runs.

The Cincinnati Reds imp their station in the Na league with a 7-2 conquest New York Giants in another contest. Gene Thompson al ten hits and knocked in runs to make sure of his se victory.

In the only other game senior circuit the Chicago edged out the Phillies 3-2 Dom Dallessandro accountir all Chicago's runs on a with the bases loaded.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

BRAVES ON WARPATH

MANSFIELD, O., June 6—The Mansfield Braves scored 27 runs on 35 hits yesterday in taking an Ohio State league doubleheader from the Fostoria Red Birds, 10 to 2 and 17 to 7. Four home runs contributed to Lima's 12 to 3 victory over Tiffin. Findlay kept up its league-leading pace with a 7 to 2 defeat of Fremont.

GOLF STARS TEE OFF IN NATIONAL OPEN TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O June 6 — Golf's greatest show—the national open championship—sent an all-star cast of par smashers into battle against wind and distance at Canterbury golf club today The defending champion in this 44th edition of the games "world series" is Lieut Byron Nelson of Toledo O Lined up against him are some 149 other top flight professionals and amateurs

The players known to be consistently long and straight are given the best chance of licking the winds and Canterbury's par of 36 36—72 over the three-day 72-hole grind Slamming Sam Snead and little Ben Hogan therefore are rated the co-favorites at 6 1 to take the crown which Nelson won after last year's double playoff at Philadelphia

The Gumps — By Gus Edson

UNCLE BIM IS JUST ABOUT THE SWELLEST, MOST GENEROUS GUY IN THE WHOLE WORLD—HE'S DEFRAYING ALL OF JEFFERSON JONES' HOSPITAL EXPENSES AND DOCTORS' FEES—
ISN'T HE THE GRANDEST MAN! BUT I SURELY HOPE HIS GENEROSITY ISN'T ALL IN VAIN—IT WILL KILL BABY IF THE YOUNG MAN ER-DOESN'T GET WELL—
SURE—HE'LL GET WELL—THE GRIM REAPER HAS NO MORE CHANCE OF BREAKING THROUGH THAT PROTECTING WALL OF WORLD-FAMOUS DOCTORS THAN A SMALL BOY WITH A POP-GUN HAS OF CRACKING THE MAGINOT LINE
BUT DOES THAT "PROTECTIVE WALL" OF DOCTORS SHARE ANDY'S CONFIDENCE?

STOCKS RECORD MILD RECOVERY

Some Gains Made as Tension Eases on Brokers' War Nerves.

NEW YORK June 6—Speculative war nerves seemed to have relaxed a trifle in today's stock market and selected issues, led by steels, engaged in a mild recovery move Business news, generally favorable received a little attention

Bonds and commodities were a shade mixed Free sterling and the French franc were a shade lower in terms of the dollar

Stocks receiving support at one time or another included U S Steel Republic Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet Chrysler Goodrich, Sears Roebuck Douglas Aircraft Sperry and American Telephone

Commission house pessimists found further fuel in the announcement of a stock exchange seat sale for $39 000 off $3 000 from a previous transaction at a bottom mark since 1915
